

SOMETHING IN COMMON: The Mother/Daughter Plastic Surgery Trend

“The mom is sometimes hesitant at first, thinking this is kind of silly, why would somebody go through this? Then they see the results their child has and the satisfaction she has from the procedure, and all of the sudden, she loses some of her inhibitions and concerns for undergoing aesthetic work. [They don’t] necessarily have the same procedure as their child, but it definitely gets them thinking about it.”

But is the mother-daughter cosmetic surgery trend ultimately positive or negative?

Dr. Levine doesn’t believe there are any negative aspects of the trend. “Like any patient seeking cosmetic surgery, if they are an ideal candidate for the procedure — which means they not only have an aesthetic concern, but they
